

THE GAZETTE.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 24.

Mr. Budd is elected to congress in the fifth district over Charles Luling by a majority of 2,500. Hauke's majority was over 6,000. In Manitowish county—Mr. Luling's home—the republican vote increased more than 1,000, and Ozaukee county, the home of Fred Horn, there was a reduced democratic vote of nearly 1,000.

Horace Chase is the oldest pioneer in Milwaukee; he came to that city in 1833. He is vigorous, and at the present time a member of the common council.

George William Curtis thinks that the republicans in the senate did right in demanding information from the president in regard to removals, and that he ought to give it. The newspapers are now on the side of the senate.

If there is one thing more distressing than another, it is to see the chronic unpopularity in which the democratic party manages to keep itself, a good share of the time. Take Ohio for instance; by fraud nine alleged members got their certificates of election as assemblymen; by fraud four alleged members got their certificates of election as senators; and by fraud a decision of the supreme court of Ohio was obtained, by which the former frauds were sustained. The clerk of the court of Hamilton county was directed to produce the returns of a certain precinct of Cincinnati; and he was given the alternative to either place the documents in the hands of the proper committee or go to jail. A writ of habeas corpus was sworn out, and he was released on giving the proper bond. The case was taken before Judge Wiley, who is a democrat, and was therefore supposed to have the proper ability and independence to impartially try the case. To the overwhelming wonder and dismay of his political friends Judge Wiley remanded the prisoner back to the custody of the house.

Constitutional reigns in the democratic ranks; a yawning abyss opens in front of a large delegation from Hamilton county and the strongest epithets of the language are too mild to even faintly represent the disgust and indignation which are felt in regard to the conduct of Judge Wiley.

In these days of political agitation, social confusion, scientific commotion and general mental disturbance, it would be expected that the theological world could scarcely keep aloof from the omnipresent unrest. And this is the case, as new phases of spiritual thought are constantly appearing. The other day a new set of christians was organized in Milwaukee, called the Christadelphians whose creed is exactly opposed to that of the Swedenborgians—the former sect believing that the scriptures mean precisely and literally what they say—that there is no exaggeration or metaphor or unmeasured signification in any of the language. And now a religious paper in Chicago puts over an editorial the heading "A convert to orthodox agnosticism." An "Orthodox Agnostic" would certainly be a novel creature in any age and country but our own. What kind of a creed an "Orthodox Agnostic" must entertain in regard to spiritual matters, it is somewhat difficult to determine. If there be too absolutely irreconcilable things—two diverse and antagonistic phases of thought—two mental conclusions between which there must be an impassable gulf, they must be orthodox and agnosticism. If however there has been found any common ground on which they can unite, it is only another illustration of the fusing tendency of the time and the general concessions which are being made in the world of thought.

All sorts of sport are made of the weather bureau of the United States. This is partly due, doubtless, to the ridicule with which every new thing is almost invariably received; partly for the disquieting gravity with which it foretells the most violent storms which never come; and partly for the gravity-like functionaries who have always had the management of the weather bureau. Notwithstanding all the good natured badinage which has been poured upon it from more quarters than the winds blow, it has been found a very useful and practical organization, not as much to the farmer who wants to prepare to plant his tobacco as to the sailor, who wants to go down to the sea in his ship. It is one of those branches of government affairs which is capable of infinite expansion. Our postal intercourse includes every nation, and extends to the ends of the earth. Will there not be an interchange between governments of that knowledge which gives them to foretell the coming cyclone or a tidal wave? The utility of such an interchange is illustrated by the great storm which took place in October last, and which has been followed from its starting place to its collapse by the English weather bureau, but owing to the imperfect intercourse between nations, the parent of knowledge in this case was accompanied with many difficulties and annoyances. The investigation showed that the storm began in a typhoon in the Philippine Islands—where there are ample accommodations for disturbances of this kind, for they are 1,200 in number, and of all sizes. One of them is nearly as large as the State of Wisconsin, and they run down till many are merely rocks protruding from the sea. In this secluded tropical resort, the storm originated on the 27th of September; it reached California on the 18th of October, when for a time its progress was delayed, but being re-energized by a southern gale it again developed into a terrible storm, in which condition it reached the French coast on the 27th of October where it committed great devastation. On the 1st of November it reached the Baltic sea where it subsided having traversed a course of 15,000 miles in 36 days. This the first great storm whose movements have been traced from its origin to its collapse, day by day, which had traveled so great a distance.

A BOLD PROPHECY AND ITS FULFILLMENT.

That Theodore Parker had the eye of faith as well as the devotion of an enthusiast, is plain to those who read of his character and of his deeds. He was one of those orators whose flaming words were forever calling to the attention of their countrymen the iniquity of slavery. Especially fiery and potent was his language in the times of the Kansas struggle. It is one of the mysteries of nature that persons of refinement and tender sensibilities and of humane instincts, can read of the efforts at that time to extend the boundaries of slavery; of the foundation of its barbarism and ignorance; of its stamping effects upon the minds of all persons of every race; and of its cruelty and wickedness; and yet accept and believe in the creed of that party which sustained and fought for these iniquities.

The clear vision of Mr. Parker in practical affairs came naturally to him. He was the grandson of Captain John Parker, who commanded the company of minutemen fired on by the British troops at Lexington, April 19, 1775, where the first blood was shed for American liberty; and where was fired that shot, whose echo was heard round the whole world. Theodore Parker was thus born with the vital principles of human freedom inherent in his very nature united with a courage worthy to go with such principles. It was that element of his character, combined with the knowledge that in this age no project for the advancement of the human race takes a backward step, enabled him to foretell with most assuring certainty the future grandeur of his country—the ultimate extinction of slavery; the swift unfolding of our nation's greatness when that should be achieved; and the increased happiness and civilization which would follow such an event.

In May, 1850, Mr. Parker gave utterance to words which it is safe to say, were considered by those of the time who heard or read them, the mere ravings of an enthusiast. The state of general intelligence was such that all the country west of the Missouri river was considered a sterile, worthless territory in which prairie dogs burrowed and on whose plains hordes of buffalo ranged at pleasure. But Mr. Parker saw its future possibilities he knew the refreshing influences of New England brava and brava soil, and with freedom guaranteed, he saw through the lowering mists, visions of the not far distant greatness of such a people in such a country, and with this view before him he prophesied that in 1900 there would be a population of 2,000,000 in Kansas, that it would have cities like Worcester and Providence, that it would have more miles of railroad than Maryland, Virginia and both the Carolinas could boast at the time he spoke; that her land would be worth twenty dollars an acre and that her total wealth would be five hundred millions of money. It is thirty years since he uttered these words, there are fourteen years to spare before the end of the century is reached, yet the fulfillment of some of his bold and glowing prophecies have already been attained, and within the specified time there will be more than a complete realization of every expectation to which Mr. Parker gave utterance.

MR. CURTIS ON THE PRESIDENT'S POSITION.

Every few years there comes up a contest between the executive and legislative branches of our national government. Just now the phase the trouble has assumed is between the president and the senate. Mr. George William Curtis has recently made some observations which are moderate and pertinent to the question. His position is that on general principle there are no such things as secrets connected with our government; that matters that pertain to all public business should be open to the public; that petitions which are sent to the departments favorable to parties often have no significance, because multitudes of persons will sign everybody's petition; that the senate, in the duty of confirming appointments, is a part of the executive power, and that the senate could not act with proper independence if it had no access to the public records; and if the president retained for his own private use what ought to be exposed for the benefit of all the people.

If the present disagreement between the president and the senate results in having these records being given to the body and being published, will it not hereafter prove beneficial to the civil service in many ways? The documents which are now, and have been sent to the departments with the understanding that they were to be treated as confidential communications, might contain the most unjust accusations, the most slanderous reflections, and the most villainous calumnies, offered persons either in or out of office, who would have no knowledge of the imputations against their character, or, if they had the knowledge, no opportunity to controvert it. The injustice of such a condition of affairs is too obvious for elaboration.

Now if the records were justly accessible and if men's notions were liable to be exposed to the scrutiny of both friends and enemies, would there not be more hesitation in attacking the character of others, more consideration for the rights of others and a greater sense of decency in the treatment of persons who are directly or remotely connected with the civil service. It seems as though the certain results of an open rather than a secret way of doing these things would be more satisfactory in every way.

Reports say that everything is balm and ecstatic in Alaska. The bluebirds are warbling, the passies are blooming, the night hawks are soaring, the brooklets are trickling, the soft rain is falling, the bright sun is shining, and other evidences of a tropical climate in that polar region are abundant and overwhelming. Caro must, however, be taken to learn if these facts are not narrated by some enthusiastic land agent from that section or by some railroad booster whose cupidity gets the better of his veracity.

A Chicagoan is telling in Washington that the Illinois Central railroad has defrauded his city out of $12,000,000. That corporation has to pay seven per cent of its gross earnings to the state, and if the money comes from the city, the equal rider of things is reversed, as the country usually pays the tribute.

An enthusiastic correspondent at Oshkosh telegraphs that Washington's birthday was duly celebrated by flags flying from the public buildings and the banks being closed. It is to the credit of Oshkosh that economy was exercised in its devotion to the memory of its departed father.

A great cooking man is in progress in Dallas, Texas, and most of the inhabitants of that and adjoining states are, of course, visitors in that city. Nothing shakes up the Southern people like an attack of ague or cooking mania.

Gardner is bound to be on top anyhow. If the Bell telephone is better the attorney general will make millions—if it is victorious he will be vindicated.

THE STAMP-COLLECTING RAGE.

Imitations of postage stamps getting too perfect—Some interesting facts. Washington, D.C., Feb. 24.—The chief of the post office is considering the propriety of putting a stop to the printing of imitations of postage stamps. This business has grown out of the rage for postage stamps parading all classes of society, old and young, and so good have the imitations become that there is danger that they may be used for illegitimate purposes. The rage for these stamp collections is a curious one, and has had a good many people to make large investments in it as a legitimate business. There are two or more large wholesale establishments in New York, two in Philadelphia, one in Baltimore, several in London, and others scattered all over the country, where you can purchase 500,000 cancelled foreign stamps for $5, on long credit, or be supplied with three stamps at figures up to the hundreds of dollars. For the child of Paris is said to have a collection valued at 300,000 francs. A treasury official here has a fine collection upon which he has expended savings amounting to upwards of $1,500, and which is now very valuable.

Locked Out Children in New York, Feb. 24.—Tuesday morning a fire broke out in the six-story double tenement house at No. 107 West 12th street, originated on the top floor, in the apartments of Maxson Rosenberg. The fire soon extinguished the fire. In the apartments of the Rosenberg, Maxson Rosenberg and his wife, and their two children, Annie and Samuel Rosenberg, aged respectively 4 and 3½ years, they had been locked in by their mother, who was absent at the time. Rosenberg, little and dark, was carried out. The girl was dead and the boy unconscious. The mother's grief was heartrending.

Condemning Canadian Winter Sports. OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 24.—The several Roman Catholic bishops of the dominion have instructed the priesthood to caution their congregations of the evil results of the winter sports, and to urge the people to abstain from them. The bishops condemn tobogganing and skating. The ladies of the church are enjoined not to attend any such sports, which have a tendency to demoralize the youth, and to mix the sexes. The attempt to put a stop to these most popular winter sports by the church has created quite a sensation.

Killed a Convict. ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 24.—The Dispatch's St. Paul special says: "A convict named Frank Smith was shot and instantly killed by Deputy Warden Ross and this morning Smith had trouble with the foreman of his room, and seizing a sledge hammer the machinery. He then took a hatchet and threatened to kill the foreman. He was finally overpowered and taken to the hospital, but refused to be landed, and, breaking away from his captors, advanced on Ross, who, after warning him, fired. The ball passed through the upper part of Smith's body."

Discussing the Liquor Question. NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Senator Colquhoun, of Georgia, addressed an excited reform meeting in New York city, Tuesday night, and told of the success of prohibition in Atlanta. Rev. Dr. Talmage followed, saying that the liquor question was more important than the silver question. He involved the theft of a dollar, which was worth more than the whole dollar. It was more important than the whole dollar, for it destroyed the whole dollar. Other clergymen addressed the meeting.

Clinton. Milton C. Joice, of this town, came to Clinton with his brother, Earl Joice, and settled in the northwestern part of the town in the year 1839, purchasing a large tract of government land on which they have since resided until their decease. Mr. Earl Joice passed away some three years ago. The surviving brother, Milton C. Joice, died at his late residence on Tuesday morning, January 29th. His funeral on Sunday following was held at the residence, and was largely attended by his old-time friends and neighbors. A sister's children, the Gilbert brothers, will inherit this fine large estate of real and personal property.

An Investment That Paid 50,000 Per Cent.

Lieutenant Josiah Chance, of the 17th U. S. A., died suddenly recently at Trenton, O. Taken sick while shopping and died on the way home of heart disease. He was a brother of the Hon. Mahlon Chance, of Ohio; Capt. Jesse Chance, of the 13th U. S. Cavalry, and of Mrs. Stanley Huntley, widow of the late Brooklyn Eagle humorist. He drew $50,000 in the drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery on July 10th, 1853, and invested in land in Dakota territory, where stationed. At his death his estate was worth over $100,000. He put his money where he got a return of 50,000 per cent on his two dollar investment. —N. O. Times Democrat, Dec 13.

PARNELL ON CHURCHILL.

THE IRISH LEADER RAKES THE FIERY LODGE "RANDY."

Some Errors Corrected—"A Political Outlaw"—The Car Grindling His Knife—Queen Victoria Calms the Greeks—Drugs—Medicine in Germany.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—In an interview with a cable news reporter Tuesday night Mr. Parnell said: "I do not attach serious political importance to Lord Randolph Churchill's speech at Belfast. His visit to Ulster is likely to end in smoke. It is a fact not generally known that though Ulster is spoken of as an Orange or Protestant district, the exact proportion of Catholics to Protestants in the county is as 49 to 51. This is significant in view of Lord Churchill's attempt to use a religious argument out of his visit. He is a most contemptible politician, and would have taken either side, just as it suited his purposes for the moment. He was virtually on the side of the Nationalists, and the Orangemen just before taking office under Lord Salisbury. He was extremely unpopular there among the Orangemen whom he now pretends to be a friend of."

"His military operations may be summed up in the words that 'the Orangemen do not intend to fight. The last Orange demonstration gave proof of that fact. As soon as a few of them were beyond the picket line of the Nationalists, they were dispersed. The language used by Lord Churchill is no more violent than I expected to hear from him, but it will be futile. Mr. Sexton's great speech in the house of commons on Jan. 24, defining the real feelings of the Irish people, has rendered such efforts as those of Lord Churchill impossible to effect English opinion. Churchill's position on the Irish question is simply one of bad faith. Everybody knows that if the election had made Lord Salisbury independent of the Orange members, Lord Churchill would now have been engaged in supporting a home rule bill. He now wishes to turn the Orangemen under the deception that they can put the Conservatives in power by winning British sympathy. His speech shows a guarantee of Irish politics as well as of human nature. Within the memory of persons now living, no Irishman has been known for uttering language not more traitorous than his. Within my own knowledge, members of the league have been sent to prison for this kind of language. It is really a political outrage. It is impossible for him to speak for the future leaders of his party."

QUEEN VIO INTERVENES.

She induces the Greeks not to precipitate Events.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—A quite generally held report is current here that through the personal intervention of Queen Victoria, the war party's representatives in the Greek cabinet have consented not to precipitate hostilities with Turkey at the present time. The exact nature of the queen's representations is not known, but it is understood that she held out some hope of ultimate favorable action by England, provided Greece remain quiet until the permanency of the British ministry is assured. Mr. Gladstone is said to personally favor the territorial claims of Greece, but is unwilling to allow foreign questions to embarrass his cabinet.

RUSSIA'S INTENTIONS.

The Move Toward India to Be Commenced Soon.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—A St. Petersburg dispatch says: "It is an open secret among the court party that the Russian government will be resumed as soon as the winter season of the Persian Gulf operations in Afghanistan. Meanwhile the government is quietly but energetically striving to get the resources of the empire into such shape as to render the whole of the empire ready for the foreign complications which that movement will inevitably arouse. The war is credited with the purpose to make the next campaign on Afghanistan an irresistible advance to further the Russian diplomatic policy to further its ends by embracing England with Austria at that time, leaving Russia unopposed on the west, while approaching the sea through Decolistan on the southeast."

Causes of British Depression.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—At the meeting of the chambers of commerce in this city Tuesday, Mr. Perceval, Conservative member of parliament from Lancashire and a prominent merchant and ship owner of Liverpool, presided. He attributed the present depression in British trade to the appreciation of gold, assisted by the depreciation of foreign products, and manufactures turned out by skilled labor, improved by technical education.

ROME, Feb. 24.—The pope was seized with a fainting fit Tuesday, the result of fatigue from overwork. His physicians advised absolute rest for the next few days.

Iowa Legislature.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 24.—The senate Tuesday sent the bill exempting soldiers' widows' homesteads from taxation to the house, and the Democratic House bill was introduced. Wilkins introduced a resolution calling on the ways and means committee to report what has been the basis of railway taxation in recent years, and whether it was the same as on other property; whether one railway was taxed higher than others, and what railways have failed to make the required statement. The bill was passed by a large majority.

Very Unfortunate Conduct.

DOVER, N. H., Feb. 24.—C. A. Phelps, of the Advent church, gave notice that he would leave April, and a business meeting of the congregation was called for Monday evening, when those present got into a row over who should be the next pastor, and Deacon John Brooks became so infuriated as to strike Mrs. Joseph Platon with a blow in the face. The meeting broke up without restoring order.

ONE VICTORY FOR LABOR.

THE OHIO HOUSE PASSES AN EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

Trying to Conquer a Coal Mining Scale—A Big Thing in Iron Manufacture—Catholic Priests to Condemn Secret Labor Unions—Tollers' Troubles.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 24.—The interstate convention of coal miners and operators opened Tuesday, with about 150 delegates present from the coal fields of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. The leading operators of those states were present, and outnumbered the miners more than two to one. The foreman was sent in offering an organization, which resulted in the selection of Chris Evans, of Ohio, as president, and H. Bent, of La Salle, Ill., as secretary. The object of the convention was to consolidate and adopt the schedule of prices to be paid for mining in the states and districts represented and which was prepared at the Pittsburgh conference in December. This schedule proposed the following rates: Pittsburgh, 70 cents per ton; Hocking Valley, 60 cents; Indiana block, 40 cents; Indiana bituminous No. 1, 75 cents; West Virginia, 45 cents; West Virginia, 40 cents; Ohio, 35 cents; Mount Olive, 35 cents; Staunton, 35 cents; Springfield, 35 cents; Des Moines, Iowa, 30 cents. In West Virginia, the Kanawha district, reduced prices to be restored to 75 cents. Reynoldsville, Fairmont, 70 cents; coal 71 cents. These prices to rule for the year beginning May 1 next.

This schedule was agreed upon by the executive board of miners at a time, with the understanding that the other and less important details of the respective states would adjust themselves to the arrangement. After a short argument in which it was developed that there was considerable opposition to the scale from localities in Indiana and elsewhere, which it was complained by their delegates had not been consulted in the matter, the meeting adjourned for the day without action.

A GREAT LABOR VICTORY.

The Ohio House Passes a Radical Eight-Hour Law.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 24.—The labor interests of the state gained an immense victory in the house of representatives Tuesday afternoon, mainly through the hard work of Mr. McBride. The entire forenoon had been consumed in discussing Hayley's eight-hour bill, and an hour after recess was taken up again. There had been a decided opposition to the bill, yet McBride, by a series of amendments providing that firms and corporations breaking its provisions lose their charter rights. This was voted down, but having done so, the house passed the bill, after which an amendment was adopted to strike out that part of the bill making it an offense to allow employees to work more than eight hours per day.

Will Be Thought on the Colored Population.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—There was an interesting exhibition Tuesday on the floor of the senate chamber, to place the colored population of the state before the eyes of the legislature. As the bill now stands, as it will go to the senate, it provides that corporations not only cannot compel, but also cannot allow employees to work more than eight hours per day.

Important Discovery in Iron Making.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 24.—Mr. John Norton and John Tate, employees of the National Tube works, have after much outlay both of money and labor discovered and thoroughly tested on a small scale, a process whereby the finest quality of wrought iron can be produced at a cost entirely without the slow and expensive puddling process now in use. The process has been fully patented and promises to attract national notice. Numerous offers for the patent have been received by the men.

Will Condemn Secret Labor Societies.

MONTREAL, Feb. 24.—Mr. Fabre, bishop of Montreal, is authority for the statement that the archbishop of Quebec has issued a direct order to all bishops of the province next to issue a mandement condemning the Knights of Labor, the Telegraph Operators' union, and every secret order. This mandement will be read in all churches here on Sunday. The chairman of the local government committee says the mandement will be ignored. Mr. Powderly, while here last week, offered to amend the constitution as Bishop Fabre might demand. They think they have been badly used, and are disposed to defy the church and every one else.

Shoemakers' Strike at Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 24.—The shoemakers employed in five large factories in this city, to the number of about 400 struck at noon Tuesday. The strike was ordered by the Knights of Labor, owing to the refusal of the firms to sign a scale of prices increasing wages of their men about 3 per cent. The firm involved claim that if Bradley & Metcalf, who are unaffected by the strike, sign the scale they will do the same, and settle the matter immediately. Men now to ask the above-named firm to sign on the ground that they are now paying higher wages than the scale calls for.

Stopped the Strike.

McCOMBS CITY, Miss., Feb. 24.—The freight blockade on the Illinois railroad, at this point, is ended. President J. C. Clarke arrived here at midnight Monday, and at once had a conference with the strikers, in which it was agreed that the men should reduce their demands to writing, and that work should be resumed at once. From March 3 workmen are to receive the same wages as they were receiving, but they are to give up their grievances as to receive prompt attention.

The McCormick Strike.

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—The workmen lately employed at McCormick's reaper works met Tuesday and resolved not to go to work until the proprietors agreed to employ men but not unions. The Knights of Labor will use their power to prevent railway shipments to or from the works, and the prospect is for a long lockout. It will require a large sum of money to support the men, and the number, but they are sanguine that it will be forthcoming.

Briefers.

—Polo to-night.
—Wisconsin Lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F., occupy Old Fellows hall this evening—regular weekly meeting.

—East Milwaukee street was the scene of a little runaway last evening. A buggy belonging to H. S. Ames was wrecked. No other damage.

—County Superintendents of Schools, J. Boyd Jones, of Evansville, and Wm. Jones, of Clinton, are at Madison, attending a convention of county superintendents.

—Badger Council No. 223, Royal Arcanum, assemble in regular semi-monthly session this evening—lodge room in the Lappin block, East Milwaukee street.

—The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road is now selling first class limited tickets from Janesville to any part of California for $43.25, and second class limited, for $38.25.
—The West Ends, of Milwaukee, will arrive at 8:30 this evening, and the polo game will be called at 9:35. After the game the Janesvilles will entertain them with a dance at Apollo hall.

—The Choral Union concert, will without doubt be the greatest musical event of the season. About two hundred seats have already been reserved by Janesville people while one entire section has been taken by Beloit parties.

—Farmers are taking advantage of the improved condition of the roads, and are marketing considerable produce, the streets of the city present a lively appearance, and our business men are feeling correspondingly happy at the prospects of the lively time in trade.

—The case of the stato against P. E. Derriek, charged with assault and battery was brought up in the municipal court this morning, but at the time of going to press no jury had been agreed upon. Four "good men and true" were sworn in but the other two were hard to find.

—The reserved seats for the Orotorio of "The Messiah," at the rink, March 3d, are selling rapidly, and the indications are that the seats will all be sold before the day. Those desiring eligible seats should lose no time in making their selections, at Prindle & Evenson's drug store.

—Nels, Carlsson, at the North Main street meat market, to-day purchased a lot of extra fine Chesterwhite pigs, some of which weigh over four hundred pounds. It is said this is the finest lot of pigs marketed in Janesville this winter. They are on exhibition at the above market.

—Prof. F. M. Dann will form a singing school in the Good Templars' hall in Court street M. E. church block, this (Wednesday) evening, at 7:30 o'clock. Let all who are interested in music be present and join the class. Mr. Dann has taught music for the last thirty years and guarantees satisfaction to all who attend.

—Yesterday a countryman well filled with poor whisky, exhibited the usual nos within him while the Salvation Army was holding a brief service on the corn exchange square. Had the city marshal been present the inebriate would have been given an opportunity to pay for the indecent exposure of his person.

—Do not forget the entertainment to be given to-morrow evening by the Woman's Relief Corps, at the G. A. R. Post headquarters. There will be short and interesting speeches by prominent gentlemen, songs, recitations, vocal and instrumental music; also fish ponds and sale tables. Drop in and give your mite towards helping on a good cause.

—Mr. Richard Valentine, manager of the Janesville polo team, published a letter in last evening's Racine Journal, explaining the action of the Janesville polo team; the members of the executive committee on the 9th inst., and the disappointment of the club in not playing at Racine on the 15th. The Journal heads the letter "Valentine's Voice." Dick is on the right track, and the rules of the league will sanction his action.

—Mr. Charles E. Smidley, a young man twenty-six years of age, died at his home in La Prairie yesterday. He was, for several years in the employ of J. G. Todd, the brewer, but for some time past he has been confined to the house by consumption. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him, and his death is universally regretted. The funeral will be held to-morrow morning at St. Mary's church.

—Mr. and Mrs. James A. Sutherland, Dodge street, fifth ward, pleasantly entertained a large party of friends last evening, the occasion being their tenth (10) wedding anniversary. The guests left with the host and hostess many appropriate tokens of their good will and high esteem, and at an early hour the guests returned to their homes in the happiest mood, over the pleasures of the evening's entertainment.

—To-night Mr. Henry Plant, the lay evangelist, closes his labors in this city after a series of very interesting meetings. Last night the services were held in the Congregational church and a very fair sized audience was present. The discourse was principally upon the parables of the prodigal son, the lost piece of money and the missing sheep, and it was listened to with great interest. Mr. Plant's methods are very different from those of other evangelists who have visited Janesville. He does his work with will and endeavor to fit you nicely. Gentlemen's fur beavers at $15.00 former price $25.00. Call and see them.

A BANK OFFICER SHOT.

An Assistant Cashier of a Milwaukee Bank Mortally Wounded.

Special to the Gazette.

MILWAUKEE, 2 p. m., Feb. 24.—Abbott Lawrence, cashier of the National Exchange Bank, shot George A. Wardner, assistant cashier, on Wisconsin street at noon today. The wound is mortal. Wardner was carried in to the Milwaukee club room, where he now lies in a critical condition. Both men were on their way to dinner from the bank. Great excitement on the street. No cause as yet known for the act.

Personal.

—Another fine Norman horse was shipped by Bowles & Hadden to-day, the selling price being about eight hundred dollars.

—Mr. Will Johnson, of Sheboygan, is in the city for a few days. He is a brother of Mr. Charles Johnson, and was called here to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. Helen Johnson. He returns on Thursday.

—Mr. George Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Wright, of the fifth ward, went to Chicago this morning, and will at once take a position in Marshall Field's mammoth dry goods store. George is a young man of much worth and has had a great deal of experience in the dry goods business. His friends will unite in wishing him success in his new position.

—Mr. A. L. Harris, of Boston, Mass., who has been in the city for several days left for Chicago this morning. He came here to see about placing some machinery in the Wisconsin Shoe company's works, and succeeded in a sale of some fifteen hundred dollars' worth of the latest improved labor-saving machinery. This machinery will be here as soon as it can be shipped from the factory.

Intimate and Peculiar Questions.

A special dispatch from Fond du Lac to this morning's Milwaukee Sentinel contains the following, which will be of interest to several parties in Janesville: "The probating of the Elbie estate in Greenbush will involve the settlement or the relinquishment as insolvent of some exceedingly intricate and peculiar questions. It is of large consequence to determine, if possible, who of the seven visiting, or rather of the six members of the family perishing in the holocaust died first. Abram E. Elbie, the elder of the household and the owner of the estate, left a will, devising a portion of the farm to his only son, James Elbie, who also perished, and providing for the children of James and Ellen Elbie, all of whom died on the night of the holocaust. If the elder Elbie died first, the legacy would be recognized in law as passing direct to James Elbie, as the only heir to the unwill property, as well as that bequeathed him. Then it James Elbie, the son, died before the children, who were the grandchildren of the testator, they would have followed as his natural and incontestable successors, and upon their death the property would have passed in order to their granddaughters under the wife's side, who are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Taylor, of Plymouth."

But, if the children died before James Elbie, their father, then the succession would, instead run in the opposite direction, or to the heirs on the father's side extending to his ancestors and their offspring and heirs."
